

INSPECTOR IN HUBO ROLE FIGHTS DUEL WITH NEGRO

Murtha, Hunting Cocaine Seller,
Sees Colored Man Slash
Another.

TAKES PART IN BATTLE

His Disguise Cut to Pieces Before Policeman Knocks
Out Antagonist.

Police Inspector John J. Murtha of the Williamsburg district, disguised as a tramp, went out yesterday morning to get evidence in a cocaine case and wound up in a duel with a negro, in which his disguise was slashed to pieces before the man was subdued by another policeman. A man previously attacked and cut with the razor by the negro is dying at the Eastern District Hospital.

Michael De Maisco, a saloon keeper at 168 Lorimer street, was arrested ten days ago charged with trafficking in the drug for the large negro colony of the district. Murtha took a personal interest in the case and early yesterday morning, dressed in the oldest and raggedest clothing he could find, took a position across the street from the saloon to learn if the trade in cocaine still kept up.

He saw many women and children go in and out the place, but as there is a dance hall attached to it he did not know whether they were there to buy the drug or to attend the dance.

While he was watching Policeman Mooney of the Clymer street station came along, grabbed him as a suspicious character and held on until he was shown the gold shield. Then he went away nervously wondering what was going to happen. He did not go far, and that fact saved the life of the inspector.

Soon after this he saw a negro come around the corner into Lorimer street; he was a little negro and seemed to be going about his business. Just behind him crept a giant negro, and just opposite the doorway in which the inspector stood the giant made a jump forward and brought a razor blade across the throat of the man in front. The man fell, his head striking the curb of the curb, which fractured his skull.

Murtha was across the street as fast as his legs would take him and the big negro saw him coming. He made a wide slash at him, which was caught on the elbow, and then the two clinched. The two men fought with one arm free, the negro trying to use his razor and the inspector to drive him away. They were so close that all the negro could do was to slash clothing, while the hammer of the inspector's gun caught in his hip pocket. They rolled over and used both hands, fighting fiercely.

The inspector is not as large as the negro, but he made up in grit and stoicism for the difference. It was simply a case of the survival of the best trained man, with the event doubtful, when a woman striking her head out of the window saw the fight and screamed.

That gave Mooney notice a block away and he came up on a run. It did not take him long to settle it. A very skillful blow of the nightstick somewhere in the region of the temples and the negro rolled over out of the fight. Murtha got up and found that he had only a few bruises and no cuts, but his clothes were in a condition that made him glad it was early morning.

The man arrested was Harry Mitchell of 175 Lorimer street and the man he had slashed was Elijah Early of 78 of the same street. When they got him to the hospital the surgeons said they did not see how he could survive his injuries. Later in the Manhattan court Mitchell was held without bail to await the result of Early's injuries. Neither man would talk about the cause of the tragedy.

CLINTON HALL SOCIALIST FORT.

Information and instruction there
Throughout the Day.

Most of the interest of the members of the Socialist party in Manhattan centered yesterday at Clinton Hall, 151 Clinton street, which was one of more than half a dozen campaign headquarters. Clinton Hall is in the heart of the district where the workers in the clothing trades live. A committee in charge of an information bureau undertook to answer all kinds of questions and was besieged all day with crowds who wanted information from instructions as to how to mark the ballots up to the duties of a watcher. One of the members of the committee was Miss Corinne Dexter, the young woman who some time ago rescued the American flag at a Socialist meeting in Union Square from a group of members of the Industrial Workers of the World who tore it down and was beginning to trample on it.

In the afternoon Charles Russell, the Socialist candidate for Governor, and Meyer London, Socialist member for Congress in the Twelfth district, appeared and were cheered.

The two candidates afterward got into an automobile with Miss Dexter, Mrs. John Sloan, a socialist worker, and several other candidates for a tour among the polling places of the East Side.

TUBE IN MRS. NEWELL'S THROAT.

Would-be Suicide Breathes Through It While Throat Wounds Heals.

It was said at the J. Hood Wright Hospital last evening that Mrs. Louise Newell of 601 West 139th street, who was found by her husband, Frederick E. Newell, in the gas filled bathroom at her home on Monday evening with her throat and left wrist cut, is getting along nicely and may recover.

Mrs. Newell is still breathing through the rubber tube of a stomach pump which Dr. W. Mason Dickens of the hospital inserted in an opening in her windpipe which she made with a razor in her effort to kill herself.

Mrs. Newell is not able to talk as a result of her throat injuries, but she had rallied sufficiently yesterday, the hospital authorities said, to be able to scribble notes to her husband who has been constantly at her bedside.

MOVIES MAY IDENTIFY SUICIDE.

Unknown Man Leaps From Ferry-boat as Film Operator Passes.

A man jumped from the municipal ferryboat Manhattan yesterday morning as she was on her way from St. George to New York. Two passengers saw him throw off his coat and leap from the upper deck when the boat was off the Statue of Liberty. They gave warning and the boat was stopped and its lights lowered, but the man's body wasn't found.

The tugboat Mutual later picked up two coats and a hat supposed to belong to the drowned man. They were taken to Harbor Precinct A. There were two identifying marks on them.

At the time the suicide jumped from the ferryboat the Department was investigating a tug immigrant was passing on her deck was a moving picture operator of the Universal Film Company, who was taking pictures of the bay. He tried to catch the suicide with his camera, but whether he did or not could not be learned.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED.

Crook Says He Can't Get Any Money on Election Day But by Stealing.

Detectives Glynn and Botti, on the lookout for burglars around the wholesale district on election day, saw four young men enter the loft building at 262 and 264 Greene street yesterday morning. In a few minutes the detectives followed them. They found that the lock on the door of the rooms occupied by William Brown, dealer in coats and suits, had been broken. In the corner of the rear room they found the four men with two large bundles containing $500 worth of cloth.

At Headquarters the men said they were Joseph Blank of the Allen street, Harry Cohen of 182 Ludlow street, Samuel Schwartz of 94 Goerck street and Harry Trusch of 183 Allen street. Schwartz was released from Elmira Reformatory a few weeks ago, where he had been in for burglary.

On the way over to Headquarters Glynn asked the men if they had voted. "No, we ain't," said Schwartz. "Times aren't what they used to be. I can remember when I could get at least $5 every time I voted. Things have come to a pretty pass when a fellow has to steal on election day."

The men were locked up in the Mercer street station.
